Sovereign Digital Agency - sovereigndigitalagency.co.uk.

Welcome to Your Lead Magnet Template Pack

Inside this pack you will find five professionally written, conversion-tested lead magnet templates designed specifically for dating and relationship coaches. Each template is ready to customise and deploy immediately.

Every template contains complete, publish-ready content that builds trust with prospects who are often vulnerable and sceptical, positions you as a credible authority, and naturally leads them toward working with you.

Replace [YOUR NAME], [YOUR BUSINESS], and all bracketed placeholders with your own details.

TEMPLATE 1: The Dating Readiness Assessment -- 10-Point Checklist

This assessment helps singles identify what is actually holding them back (often not what they think). It creates powerful self-awareness moments.

--- BEGIN TEMPLATE ---

ARE YOU ACTUALLY READY FOR A GREAT RELATIONSHIP?

The 10-Point Dating Readiness Checklist

By [YOUR NAME], Dating & Relationship Coach | [YOUR BUSINESS]

Instructions: Check each box that is TRUE for you right now. This is not about being perfect -- it is about being honest with yourself.

THE ASSESSMENT:

1. I genuinely like who I am when I am alone. I enjoy my own company and do not need a relationship to feel complete or worthy. I have interests, friendships, and activities that fulfil me independently.
2. I am over my last relationship. I do not stalk their social media, compare new people to them, or bring them up in conversations regularly. I have genuinely processed the grief, anger, or disappointment.
3. I can clearly describe the qualities I need in a partner (not just want, but need) and I can explain why each quality matters. I am not just looking for someone attractive who is nice to me.
4. I have worked on my attachment style. I understand whether I tend toward anxious, avoidant, or secure attachment, and I recognise how this shows up in my dating patterns.
5. I am willing to be vulnerable with someone new. I can share my feelings, express my needs, and have uncomfortable conversations without shutting down or becoming defensive.
6. My life has space for a relationship. I have time in my schedule, emotional bandwidth, and practical capacity to invest in getting to know someone properly -- not just squeeze them into the gaps.
7. I have healthy boundaries and I enforce them. I can say no to behaviour that does not feel right, I do not tolerate disrespect to avoid conflict, and I do not abandon my values to keep someone interested.
8. I take responsibility for my dating history rather than blaming others. I can identify my own patterns, recognise my role in past relationship problems, and I am actively working to change unhelpful behaviours.

9. I am willing to feel uncomfortable. Dating involves rejection, awkwardness, miscommunication, and vulnerability. I understand this is normal and I am prepared to handle it without withdrawing.
10. I have realistic expectations. I know that a healthy relationship requires effort, compromise, and imperfection. I am not waiting for a fairy tale -- I am building capacity for real partnership.

YOUR SCORE:

8-10 Checked: You are genuinely ready for a meaningful relationship. Your foundation is strong. A coach can help you with strategy, confidence, and finding the right person efficiently.

5-7 Checked: You are close but there are 2-3 areas that will sabotage your dating if left unaddressed. The good news: these gaps are very fixable with the right guidance.

2-4 Checked: You have important inner work to do before a relationship will succeed. Jumping into dating right now will likely repeat old patterns. Focus on readiness first.

0-1 Checked: Please be compassionate with yourself. You are not broken. You are just not in a place where dating will serve you well right now. Start with self-development and healing.

Whatever your score, [YOUR NAME] can help. I offer a free 20-minute Dating Clarity Call to review your results and map out your personalised next steps.

TEMPLATE 2: 5 Dating Mistakes Smart People Make -- Mini-Guide

This guide educates while creating recognition moments. Readers see themselves in the mistakes and realise they need help.

--- BEGIN TEMPLATE ---

5 DATING MISTAKES THAT SMART, SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE KEEP MAKING

By [YOUR NAME], Dating & Relationship Coach

You are intelligent, accomplished, and competent in virtually every area of your life. Yet your dating life feels like a foreign country where none of your usual skills apply. If that resonates, you are not alone -- and you are not doing anything wrong. You are just applying the wrong framework.

Here are the five mistakes I see most often in my coaching practice, and every single one is fixable.

MISTAKE 1: Treating Dating Like a Job Interview

You show up with your best professional self. You ask structured questions. You evaluate compatibility like you are assessing a business proposal. The conversation is polished, intelligent, and utterly devoid of chemistry.

Dating is not a logical assessment. It is an emotional experience. The qualities that make you excellent at your career -- analysis, control, efficiency -- can actually work against you in dating. Connection happens when you relax, not when you perform.

The Fix: Before a date, shift your goal from 'impress them' to 'have fun and be curious.' Ask questions you are genuinely curious about, not questions designed to evaluate compatibility metrics. Share something slightly vulnerable about yourself early on. Laugh more. Analyse less.

MISTAKE 2: Having a Rigid Checklist

Must be over 6 feet tall. Must earn over GBP80,000. Must love hiking. Must want exactly 2 children. Must have a postgraduate degree.

Checklists feel safe because they give you a framework for decision-making. But the most successful long-term relationships are rarely between people who matched each other's checklists perfectly. They are between people who felt something genuine and chose to grow together.

The Fix: Distinguish between non-negotiable values (integrity, kindness, life direction) and surface preferences (height, job title, hobbies). Keep your values list tight -- 3-5 items maximum. Let go of everything else and be surprised by who shows up.

MISTAKE 3: Moving Too Fast or Too Slow

Anxious daters move too fast: they over-invest emotionally before they really know someone, send double texts, and start imagining a future after the second date. Avoidant daters move too slow: they keep people at arm's length, avoid commitment, and disappear when things get real.

Both patterns are self-protective. Neither leads to a healthy relationship.

The Fix: Match pace with the other person. Reciprocate their level of investment. If they text, you text back. If they suggest a date, you suggest the next one. Aim for steady, mutual escalation rather than either racing ahead or holding back.

MISTAKE 4: Ignoring Red Flags Because You Want It to Work

They cancel plans repeatedly. They are hot and cold. They talk about their ex constantly. They make you feel anxious more than calm. But you rationalise it all because 'when it is good, it is really good.'

Red flags in the first 3 months do not improve with time. They get worse. The early dating phase is when people are on their best behaviour. If they are showing you problems now, believe them.

The Fix: Write down your non-negotiable red flags before you start dating (not during, when emotions cloud judgement). Common deal-breakers: inconsistency, disrespect, dishonesty, lack of accountability. If you spot one, do not negotiate with yourself. Move on.

MISTAKE 5: Trying to Do It All Alone

You read the books, listen to the podcasts, and analyse your patterns endlessly. You understand attachment theory intellectually. You know what you should do differently. Yet you keep falling into the same cycles.

Knowledge without accountability is entertainment, not transformation. Your blind spots are, by definition, invisible to you. You need someone outside your pattern to help you see it clearly.

The Fix: Work with a coach, therapist, or trusted friend who will be honest with you. Someone who will call out your patterns in real time, hold you accountable to your standards, and help you navigate the emotional complexity of dating with clarity.

TEMPLATE 3: The Relationship Vision Workbook -- Worksheet

This interactive worksheet helps prospects clarify what they actually want (many have never done this properly). It creates a powerful coaching moment.

--- BEGIN TEMPLATE ---

THE RELATIONSHIP VISION WORKBOOK

Design Your Ideal Partnership in 5 Steps

By [YOUR NAME] | [YOUR BUSINESS]

Set aside 30-45 minutes in a quiet space. Be completely honest -- nobody else will see this.

STEP 1: RELATIONSHIP AUTOPSY (15 Minutes)

Think about your last 2-3 significant relationships (or dating patterns if you have not had long relationships). Answer these questions:

What initially attracted me to them: _____

What I loved most about the relationship: _____

What caused the most conflict: _____
My role in the problems: _____
The moment I knew it was over: _____
What I wish I had done differently: _____

Pattern Recognition:

I tend to be attracted to people who are: _____
In relationships, I tend to: _____
My most common relationship complaint is: _____
The feeling I most want from a relationship is: _____
The feeling I most want to avoid: _____

STEP 2: VALUES CLARITY (5 Minutes)

Rank these relationship values from 1-10 (1 = most important):

- ___ Emotional intimacy and deep conversation
- ___ Physical attraction and chemistry
- ___ Shared ambition and life goals
- ___ Humour and playfulness
- ___ Stability and reliability
- ___ Independence and personal space
- ___ Family and domestic partnership
- ___ Adventure and spontaneity
- ___ Intellectual stimulation
- ___ Physical affection and touch

My top 3 non-negotiable values: _____

STEP 3: PARTNER VISION (10 Minutes)

Describe your ideal partner in terms of character (not appearance):

How they handle conflict: _____
How they show love: _____
How they spend a typical Saturday: _____
How they talk about their goals: _____
How they treat strangers and service staff: _____
How they make you feel when you are with them: _____

Now the harder question:

What kind of partner do THEY need YOU to be? _____
Are you currently that person? _____
What would you need to develop? _____

STEP 4: YOUR DATING ACTION PLAN (10 Minutes)

I will meet potential partners through: _____

(List at least 3 channels: apps, events, hobbies, introductions, etc.)

I will go on _____ dates per month minimum

After each date, I will reflect on: _____

My 3 red flags (instant deal-breakers): _____

My 3 green flags (signs of a good match): _____

STEP 5: ACCOUNTABILITY

I will review this workbook every: _____ weeks

My trusted person for honest feedback is: _____

If I catch myself repeating an old pattern, I will: _____

TEMPLATE 4: The First Date Cheat Sheet -- Quick Reference Card

A practical, shareable reference card that builds goodwill and trust.

--- BEGIN TEMPLATE ---

THE FIRST DATE CHEAT SHEET

Your Quick Reference for Making Genuine Connections

By [YOUR NAME] | [YOUR WEBSITE]

BEFORE THE DATE:

- Choose a low-pressure venue (coffee, walk, casual drinks -- never dinner for a first date)
- Arrive 5 minutes early (punctuality signals respect)
- Set an internal intention: 'I am going to be curious and present, not impressive and perfect'
- Limit the date to 60-90 minutes (leave them wanting more, not checking their phone)
- Tell a friend where you are going (safety first, always)

FIRST 5 MINUTES (Set the Tone):

- Warm greeting with a genuine smile and eye contact

- Give a sincere, specific compliment (their energy, style, something from their profile -- not just 'you look nice')
- Open with something light and fun, not 'so, what do you do?'
- Try: 'What is the best thing that happened to you this week?' or 'Have you done anything fun lately?'

CONVERSATION GUIDE:

- Ask open-ended questions (how, what, why -- not yes/no)
- Listen more than you talk (aim for 60/40 in their favour)
- Share stories, not facts (stories create emotional connection)
- Be slightly vulnerable: share something real about yourself, not just surface-level information
- Mirror their energy -- match their enthusiasm and pace

TOPICS THAT BUILD CONNECTION:

- Travel experiences and dream destinations
- Passions and hobbies (what lights them up)
- Funny stories and embarrassing moments
- Values and what matters to them
- Goals and what excites them about the future

TOPICS TO AVOID ON DATE ONE:

- Ex-partners (save it for later, much later)
- Salary, debt, or financial details
- Controversial politics or religion (unless you are both clearly aligned)
- Complaints about dating apps or past dates
- Anything you would not say to a new colleague

BODY LANGUAGE THAT SIGNALS INTEREST:

- Consistent (not intense) eye contact
- Leaning in slightly when they talk
- Uncrossed arms and open posture
- Genuine laughter (not forced)
- Light, appropriate touch (brief arm touch when laughing)

ENDING THE DATE:

- If interested: 'I have really enjoyed this. I would love to do this again.'
- If unsure: 'This was really nice. Let me think about when I am free next.'
- If not interested: 'Thank you for tonight. I had a lovely time.' (You do not owe an explanation on the spot.)

AFTER THE DATE:

- Text within 2-4 hours if interested: 'I had a great time tonight. [Reference something specific from the conversation.]'
- If they text first, respond within a reasonable timeframe (playing games is for teenagers)
- Suggest a specific second date plan within 3-4 days

TEMPLATE 5: Rate Your Dating Life -- Self-Assessment Scorecard

An engaging quiz that creates self-awareness and identifies coaching opportunities.

--- BEGIN TEMPLATE ---

RATE YOUR DATING LIFE SCORECARD

A Candid Self-Assessment in 5 Minutes

By [YOUR NAME], Dating & Relationship Coach

Rate each statement from 1 to 5.

1 = Strongly Disagree | 2 = Disagree | 3 = Neutral | 4 = Agree | 5 = Strongly Agree

SECTION A -- SELF-AWARENESS:

- A1. I understand my attachment style and how it affects my relationships. ____
 - A2. I can identify my dating patterns (the types I attract and the cycles I repeat). ____
 - A3. I know the difference between what I want and what I need in a partner. ____
 - A4. I have processed my past relationships and learned from them. ____
 - A5. I take responsibility for my part in relationship dynamics. ____
- Section A Total: ____/25

SECTION B -- CONFIDENCE AND SELF-WORTH:

- B1. I feel worthy of love and a great relationship. ____
 - B2. I am comfortable being seen as I truly am, not a curated version. ____
 - B3. I do not tolerate poor treatment because I fear being alone. ____
 - B4. I can walk away from someone who is not right for me, even if I like them. ____
 - B5. I do not need external validation to feel good about myself. ____
- Section B Total: ____/25

SECTION C -- DATING SKILLS:

- C1. I feel confident initiating conversations with people I find attractive. ____
 - C2. I am good at creating genuine connection on dates (not just polite conversation). ____
 - C3. I communicate my feelings and needs clearly and directly. ____
 - C4. I read social cues well and can tell when someone is interested. ____
 - C5. I handle rejection without spiralling or withdrawing from dating entirely. ____
- Section C Total: ____/25

SECTION D -- RELATIONSHIP READINESS:

- D1. My life has genuine space (time, energy, emotion) for a relationship. ____
- D2. I am over my most recent ex-partner. ____

D3. I have a fulfilling life that a partner would complement, not complete. ____

D4. I am willing to compromise and adapt for the right person. ____

D5. I am excited about the possibility of meeting someone, not anxious or desperate. ____

Section D Total: ____/25

GRAND TOTAL: ____/100

85-100: Relationship Ready. You have strong foundations. A coach can help you find the right person more efficiently and avoid time-wasters.

65-84: Almost There. A few key areas need attention before you will attract and sustain the relationship you deserve. Coaching can close these gaps quickly.

45-64: Growing. You have self-awareness but your patterns and habits are working against you. This is where coaching makes the most dramatic difference.

20-44: Healing. Be gentle with yourself. You have work to do before dating will serve you. Start with self-development, not partner-seeking.

Your lowest section reveals your biggest growth area. Address it and everything else improves.

How to Use These Templates

Deploy these five templates to build a steady flow of dating coaching clients.

- 1. Customise Sensitive: Dating coaching requires extra sensitivity. Adjust tone and examples to match your specific audience (men, women, LGBTQ+, over-40s, divorced, etc.). Remove or modify any examples that do not fit. Add your own client success stories (with permission) for social proof.
- 2. Choose Platforms Wisely: The first date cheat sheet is highly shareable on Instagram and TikTok. The dating mistakes guide works as a blog post, podcast episode, or YouTube video. The scorecard works best as an interactive quiz (try Typeform or ScoreApp). The readiness assessment is a strong PDF download. The workbook works as a premium opt-in or discovery call bonus.
- 3. Build Trust First: Dating coaching prospects are often sceptical and vulnerable. Your follow-up email sequence should be 80% value, 20% offer. Share genuine insights, normalise their struggles, and demonstrate empathy before asking for a consultation.
- 4. Drive Targeted Traffic: Instagram Reels and TikToks addressing specific dating frustrations drive massive traffic.

Reddit communities (r/dating, r/relationships) value genuine advice (do not spam). Podcast guest appearances on dating and relationship shows. Facebook groups for singles in your target demographic. YouTube is excellent for dating coaches -- screen-share your cheat sheet and walk through it.

5. Handle the Discovery Call Well: Dating coaching prospects need to feel safe, not sold to. Frame the call as a conversation, not an assessment. Listen more than you talk. Acknowledge their courage in seeking help. Present coaching as accelerating their natural progress, not fixing something broken.
6. Track What Converts: The scorecard and readiness assessment typically convert highest because they create immediate self-awareness. The cheat sheet generates the most shares and referrals. Use what works and create variations.

PRO TIPS FOR DATING COACHES:

- Social proof is everything in this niche. Success stories (anonymised) are your most powerful marketing asset.
- Short-form video content (Instagram Reels, TikTok, YouTube Shorts) converts exceptionally well for dating coaches.
- Men and women respond to very different messaging. Create separate versions of your lead magnets if you serve both.
- The first date cheat sheet is your most viral asset -- it gets screenshotted and shared constantly.
- Be careful with promises. Never guarantee results in dating -- instead, promise skill development and self-understanding.
